SUBJ: Summer Employment for Graduate Students - Please Post Initial Openings by 4/30/20

Dear Campus Partners,

Every summer UC San Diego employs many graduate students as teaching assistants, resident advisors, educational mentors, researchers, and hourly administrative staff in offices across campus. This year, we are launching an initiative that will make it easier for all graduate students to learn about available opportunities university-wide.

On Friday, May 1 we will be sending all graduate students an email announcing an update to the Grad Life website that provides links to two digital marketplaces where they can search for, and apply to, summer employment opportunities.

We ask you to please list as many of your anticipated summer opportunities as possible in these digital marketplaces by April 30. Even after this date, as you develop additional opportunities, please continue to post them so that students will have the best chance of learning about them.

As always, your department/unit/division HR or student employment coordinator can assist with posting positions. They have access to, and should post opportunities for graduate students in, the following digital marketplaces:

- IA System for academic student employment opportunities such as teaching assistants, readers, and tutors.
- Handshake for casual/restricted hourly roles and graduate student researcher positions. Please request these roles be labeled in the system as “graduate students preferred” for easy searching.

Thank you for partnering with us this summer to provide employment opportunities to graduate students and ensure that all students are aware of available positions. If you have any questions about hiring graduate students, please email fsu-director@ucsd.edu.
